Thoughtfully designed course that integrates storytelling from his real cases, key concepts, and readings effectively. The prof is extremely knowledgeable, experienced, super kind, and engaging. One of my favorite professors and classes. It's remarkable how much I've learned so far and the friends I've made. Posting now as reg. is soon-. Take it!

Extremely smart and absolutely knows his material. Kind and funny professor. But a large percentage of every class is just him telling funny or interesting stories that don't relate to the material. The homework thoroughly incorporates concepts and cases, but don't expect educational material in his lectures.

He is a great professor. His lectures are genuinely interesting, and he encourages participation. He is a very helpful and reachable professor. But his classes are demanding and require you to actually read and do the work. Make sure you do the required readings!! His assignments were helpful and relevant. I gained a lot from his class.

definitely would describe him as "quirky". his classes aren't your typical lecture style, he encourages participation and WILL call on a random person if he wants to. I really liked his option of opting out of the final in exchange for a B/B+ in the class

E&L is the first class that genuinely feels like i'm having a conversation with an old friend (coming from someone in Gallatin). He is very talented in his delivery in that you will be engrossed in the class and he has a great personality! Very caring professor and truly wants his students to succeed. Sad I can't take more classes with him (senior) class where the professor sits and reads slides at you while you memorize definitions and drill content - Rich isn't the professor for you. Much more of a collaborative approach and you need you get out what you put into the class.

Goated professor. My favorite class I've taken throughout university. If you want a "sage on the stage"

I will forever remember Professor Rich and his class. Rich creates such a friendly and interactive learning environment where I not only learn about law, but also about life. He built community both with him and with my fellow peers. I left the class knowing everyone's name and speaking to all 25 students at least once throughout the semester!

Rich is the BEST professor at Stern!
His teaching style, the use of telling stories, allows for us to have a real world grasp of the concepts taught in this class. The stories help a lot when writing the legal papers. Rich also cares immensely about his students!! If you ever have a problem you can always talk to him, he gives the best advise!

Rich is one of the best professors that you can take at Stern!! He cares tremendously about the well being of his students. He is very accessible to talk about class, career advice, or just life in general. Although he does not use lecture slides, his use of story telling provides a better outstanding of the topics learned in the class.

Professor is well-liked by many of his students across different classes, likely due to his friendly/peer-like approach. However, I believe that it is negative to blur teacher/student relations – it obvious in class and a bit uncomfortable to witness at times. The class itself: a good intro to law,

He's a tweaker, I can't lie, but he's a super fun professor who cares if you get the content. If you can deal with his "bits" and understand the meaning of why he does it, you'll do well in his class. If you ask for help in your life, he'll buy you dinner to talk about it. 10/10 would geek in his class again.

Rich... I have so many good things to say about this professor. Ultimately, he will be one of the best professors you take at NYU - if you have the opportunity to take his course. I highly recommend that you take this opportunity, as taking his class was transformational for me and many others. He is a truly caring and exceptional person.

He is the best professor for LBS. It was an amazing class and I'm smarter and better because of Rich. So grateful I had the opportunity to be in his class. I've never had a professor who does more for their students. It's truly surprising how much effort he puts in, with unique sessions and opportunities both in and outside the classroom.

He's an exceptional professor, engaging, entertaining, and incredibly knowledgeable. This course and the professor have been a highlight of my four years at NYU. Every class was enjoyable, and the effort put into the work was absolutely worth it. My advice to future students: ask questions about assignments — it's a great way to earn higher scores.

Yes he is nice, but don't take this class. His grading is hard and inconsistent. The assignments aren't helpful in learning the material yet time consuming. In class we would spend the whole time talking about anything but the course material. I didn't learn. I am an extremely dedicated student yet feel it was merely impossible to get an A.

Rich genuinely tries to build relationships with every one of his students, and fosters a caring community within the classroom. As a practicing attorney, Rich prefers to draw upon his own experiences to teach fundamental concepts. Classes can be lecture-y but overall a great experience if you buy into Rich's style of teaching. Highly recommend it.

I like Rich as a person, but as a professor, he's hard to follow. He encourages class connections, and I appreciate that, especially in Stern courses. However, he has no slides, class notes, etc. and tells stories rather than actually lecture. There is a significant amount of coursework, and thankfully you can do it in groups.

Professor Hendler (Rich) is AMAZING! He is a fantastic prof and storyteller. A lot of work but definitely worth it. I learned about law and myself working with my group. The LawGame was definitely the best experience at NYU. Rich is so enthusiastic about what he teaches and always willing to help. Rich, the course, and my new friends are awesome.
