The professor is supportive and loves to talk a lot (I mean it in the nicest way). The problem is the TA. Guy gives absolutely no grading criteria for anything, including assignments and the final project, and he somehow grades everything super harshly.

Tests are very simple, but theres barely any good material to study off of, so make sure you collect every bit of info you can. He has many great guest speakers and is knowledgeable. This class is not rigorous. I would recommend taking notes so when the test comes you understand what to study for.

Professor Master is a good professor, he knows a lot about sports marketing and industry itself. What makes his class great are his guest speakers and opportunities for networking that class provides.

Every class felt like a masterclass in sports business strategy, I walked away with both a strong foundation of the sports business and a clearer vision of my career path. If you're interested in the business of sports, you won't find a better professor. One of the best parts of the class is the great speakers he brought in from NFL, NBA, ESPN.

4.0	Would Take Again: Yes Grade: A- Textbook: N/A Professor Master's sports marketing class was one of the best and most engaging experiences I've had at NYU. I've always loved sports, but this class helped me understand how the entire industry works behind the scenes as he covered a wide range of topics from media rights and sponsorships to athlete branding. Also had awesome guest speakers. PARTICIPATION MATTERS GROUP PROJECTS AMAZING LECTURES Helpful 0 0

Great Professor, he talks about his work life but it's actually interesting not like other professors. There is 5 case studies but they aren't too bad honestly if you read it. There is a group project but he grades mostly off of content than rather presentation so that's nice. Overall, super cool professor so I definitely recommend.

pay attention in class, record do whatever you can do to take notes because the only exam is 40% and he has 0 study reference just whatever you remember. project was relatively easy but he was flimsy on what he really wanted. lectures were great they were stacked with relevant guest speakers. im still waiting on my participation grade for an A.

Midterm and final project are each 40% bc lack of assignments. Midterm based on guest speakers only. Didn't say that until a few days before. Never gave guidelines for or
